

Look Here—Martin Luther King, October 27, 1957, NBC News

to give up her seat
the Rosa Parks case triggered something almost overnight, you became an international figure to deal with two aspects the cup of endurance had run over how could this method be reconciled with the Christian faith...? not to put the bus company out of business but to put justice in business
a false sense of inferiority, a false sense of superiority
some leavening reality
do you subscribe to that judgment...? an all too prevalent fallacy resignation or acquiescence in breaking aloose from the bondage of oppression noncooperation with evil is as much a moral obligation as cooperation with good
cowardice and stagnant passivity passive physically but strongly active spiritually
the intelligent use of police force indulge in a superficial optimism boast of having clean hands in this area making a political football out of the civil rights situation my intellectual odyssey or pilgrimage Thoreau's essay on civil disobedience all deliberate speed gradualism, do-nothingism, stand-stillism
the indiscriminate use of boycotts you struck at the white South's Christian conscience a sense of guilt
indulge in more of the same
anything that came my way trying to run from the situation
a great deal of bitterness privileged classes rarely give up privileges without strong resistance the reactionaries of the white South increasing industrialization and concomitant urbanization
the folkways of white supremacy
the rolling tide of world opinion before the turn of the century

Look Here—Martin Luther King, October 27, 1957, NBC News

to give up her seat
the Rosa Parks case triggered something
almost overnight, you became an international figure
to deal with two aspects
the cup of endurance had run over
how could this method be reconciled with the Christian faith...?
not to put the bus company out of business but to put justice in
business
a false sense of inferiority, a false sense of superiority
some leavening reality
do you subscribe to that judgment...?
an all too prevalent fallacy
resignation or acquiescence
in breaking aloose from the bondage of oppression
noncooperation with evil is as much a moral obligation as
cooperation with good
cowardice and stagnant passivity
passive physically but strongly active spiritually
the intelligent use of police force
indulge in a superficial optimism
boast of having clean hands in this area
making a political football out of the civil rights situation
my intellectual odyssey or pilgrimage
Thoreau's essay on civil disobedience
all deliberate speed
gradualism, do-nothingism, stand-stillism
the indiscriminate use of boycotts
you struck at the white South's Christian conscience
a sense of guilt
indulge in more of the same
anything that came my way
trying to run from the situation
a great deal of bitterness
privileged classes rarely give up privileges without strong resistance
the reactionaries of the white South
increasing industrialization and concomitant urbanization
the folkways of white supremacy
the rolling tide of world opinion
before the turn of the century